

Best Places to Work Program: 10 Years and Counting

“Why isn’t my organization on the Best Places to Work in Indiana list?”

That is one of the most common questions heard each year at this time. The answer, in nearly all cases, is a simple one: Your business likely did not apply. It’s a simple process – one that is clearly explained at www.bestplacestoworkIN.com – and one we encourage you to pursue in the years ahead.

The winners are chosen through expert analysis of employer questionnaires and employee surveys by Best Companies Group (BCG), which conducts similar programs in many other states and industries. We’re proud to have partnered with BCG over the last 10 years to recognize outstanding Indiana workplaces.

We look forward to even more applicants and winners in 2016. But before moving ahead, this issue honors – for the third year in a row – 100 Indiana organizations. What will you find in a record-setting 57 pages of coverage in this issue?

- Company profiles
- A roundtable discussion that includes representatives of the top-ranked businesses in all four categories
- Feature stories that dig deeper on honorees of all sizes and locations throughout the state
- Getting to Know profiles, guest columns, winner quotes and much more

Special recognition goes to the two organizations – Edward Jones and Katz, Sapper & Miller – that have earned their spot on the list all 10 years. Others that have achieved Hall of Fame and Pinnacle status are highlighted on Page 16.

While the Best Places to Work coverage is extensive, we don’t overlook Indiana Vision 2025. Attractive Business Climate is the featured driver, with a series of stories (beginning on Page 78) focused on health care. Hospital rankings and unique partnerships, workplace wellness from a state government perspective and campus/community initiatives are among the features.

The County Focus shifts to the southwest to Knox and the community of Vincennes. Business growth and a downtown revitalization are among the developments in the home of Indiana’s first state capital.
