

Trio of Compliance Courses Available

Compliance training is one of the areas in which it is not really possible to check the box – at least long term. Laws and regulations change on a regular basis, requiring updates, revisions and refreshers.

The Indiana Chamber, and our partners at Ogletree Deakins, are offering three important courses in an eight-day period in June. Take part in one or all. The normal 20% discount for multiple attendees from one organization is still in place, with 20% off the total investment also available (via phone or email) to anyone attending two or three of these important sessions.

- Employee Benefits Seminar, June 12: This training will cover qualified plan game changers, the DOL's proposed overtime revisions, navigating COBRA and Medicare, voluntary exit incentive programs and much more.
- ADA Seminar, June 19: The Americans with Disabilities Act can be difficult to navigate and can result in lawsuits. This conference will help you better understand the ever-expanding list of disabilities covered under the act, what reasonable accommodation is, recent ADA cases and additional intricacies.
- FMLA Seminar June 20: This seminar will help you to find your way through the complex and murky waters of FMLA laws. Learn strategies, tips, tricks, case studies and more to ensure your organization is protected against legal backlash.

The Chamber-member discounted price for each is $399, with list prices of $499. All sessions are at the Indiana Chamber Conference Center. Register online at www.indianachamber.com/conferences or call Nick at (800) 824-6855.
